Silver.

The bill of Mr. CHRISTIANCY providing how silver coin and silver bullion may be used in payment of debts strikes us as good one. In 1852, or thereabouts, when the discovery of gold in California had created the belief that silver was to be relatively to gold much more valuable than it had previously been, Mr. HUNTER, of Virginia, introduced into the United States Senate a bill, which became a law, providing for the coinage of silver tokens of less value than they purported to have. This was done in order to prevent the exportation of our silver coins, which were fast going to Europe, they being worth, dollar for dollar, not by weight, more than gold coins. The law operated beneficially. It stopped the undue exportation of our silver coins, since nobody was foolish enough to buy coins at a price which precluded the idea of profit, in order to send them abroad.

Now, however, the case is reversed. Relatively to gold, silver is worth much less than it was a few years ago. The demone- H. L. Schwelz, Hampton; F. H. We say, No. Silver is one of our most valuable products. It | Finally the following resolutions were is salable in every civilized country in the adopted: world. It will buy goods in London or Caleutta. It will buy diamonds in South America, and coffee in Java. It annually adds to the wealth already possessed in this country a quantity equal to the quantity of be appointed to prepare a plan for endowsilver mined. It would be as wise for us to destroy the value of our petroleum wells as to destroy the value of our silver mines. It would be to aid in the destruction of one of our most lucrative industries and in the consequent impoverishment of our own country. Gold and silver are both recognized by the Federal Constitution as the money of this country (because they are the money of the world). Gold and silver were both a legal tender for any amount when the most of the public debt was created. Gold and silver ought to continue to be both a legal tender for all debts. Mr. Christiancy's bill provides for Certainly a proposition to demonetize gold would, under the circumstances supposed, faculty, read a list of students distinguished be as easily justified as would be the demonetization of silver under present circumstances. There is no justice to the people in this latter proposition, although to read some of the New York papers one might infer that silver is hardly as good as rag-money. There is no wisdom in destroying one of our own most valuable industries.

They fear to trust their neighbors or the banks, and so they spend every dollar they can get hold of. Let them hoard it. If they will only hoard enough of it to render it more valuable than gold, dollar for dollar, it will not be long before the men who now call for the demonetization of silver will demand the demonetization of gold. FIFTEEN MILES WEST FROM STAUNTON (cars stopping at the door), on the Chesapeake and situated in the mountains of Virginia, at an eleva tion of 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, offers to both invalids and pleasure-seekers a rare combination of attractions in the variety and excellence of the mineral waters, the healthy and delightful nature of the climate, and the unrivalled magnificence of the surrounding scenery.

The mineral springs include the three distinct classes of alum, chalybeate, and healing. The alum water is shown by actual analysis to be fully equal to that of the Rockbridge Alum. The chalybeate and to that of the Rockbridge Alum. The chalybeate and healing waters are of very superior excellence. Ample experience in the use of these waters have fully established their great curative properties. They have made many wonderful cures, and are most admittably adapted to the treatment of dyspepsta, liver disease, constipation, scrofula, erysipelas, cutaneous diseases, neuralgia, rheumatism, diseases of the urinary and generative organs, maladies peculiar to the female sex, and general debility. There are few forms of chronic disease that would not either be entirely cured or greatly benefited by their judicious use.
